PONTOON BRIDGE ACROSS DELAWARE AT LUMBERVILLE ATTRACTS LARGE CROWD OF SIGHTSEERS; BUILT BY SOLDIERS

LUMBERVILLE, July 21—An Army pontoon bridge, which spans the Delaware River just above the old bridge here, is proving of much interest to the public.

The pontoon bridge was constructed as an Army maneuver by an engineering corps from Fort duPont, Del., several days ago. It was the center of interest for many sightseers during the week-end.

The bridge is made of steel and boats and can carry a load of 10,000 pounds, it is stated.

A visitor to the bridge on Saturday inquired of one of the sentries as to how he liked this section of the country. The sentry, a resident of Boston, Mass., informed that he is enjoying his stay here, especially after a period of time spent in the wilds of a section of the South.

Children by the hundreds have walked across the bridge, and others have enjoyed using bicycles to cross it.

Soldiers, on guard, warned the people about getting too near the edge. Many swimmers, taking advantage of the bridge in mid-stream used it as a diving board.

While visiting the bridge site—there are two of them, one each over the canal and river—one woman almost shrieked for help when one of the soldiers, fully clad, walked down into the canal up to his stomach in the water. "I do that every once in a while just to keep cool," said the soldier with the water dripping from his soaked pants and shoes.

Lad Seriously Hurt When Struck By Bicycle

It was revealed by the police today that a serious accident due to a bicyclist violating traffic rules and regulations occurred here July 11th, and so far they have been unable to learn the name of the children who were on the wheel.

A boy, ten years of age, Linford Bobbs, Pond street, has a serious injury of the left elbow.

According to the police young Bobbs was crossing Pond street at the intersection of Walnut street. The red light was against traffic on Pond street when a boy with another rider on the wheel struck Bobbs and threw him to the ground. The member states that at the top of

LET COUNTING CEASE

As a result of the abolition by Congress of the Civilian Conservation Corps, the counting of visitors to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park is to cease, according to a news report for Gatlinburg, Tennessee. J. Ross Eakin, park superintendent, says that because park rangers must devote full time to wildlife and forest protection, they can not be spared for counting and that checking stations heretofore manned by CCC enrollees will be eliminated.

It's too bad that the information concerning the use of CCC enrollees for counting visitors could not have been made available when the abolition was being discussed. This country is supposed to harbor a lot of inventive genius and someone ought to be ingenious enough to figure out a way of counting autos and individuals without resort to the use of human mathematicians.

What's the matter with the electric eye for counting cars and with turnstiles for counting people? Of course, it is a known fact that turnstiles used in public buildings are not always accurate. Children sometimes dash in the doors to give the turnstiles a few swings, and then dash out, adding to attendance records. But a good inventor could take care of this discrepancy, too.

At any rate, the figures of the War Manpower Commission, showing the huge number of persons to be needed in war production soon, militate against the use of any able-bodied persons in a project to count other persons. This is war—this is no time for people to count each other.

LIFE INSURANCE

Federal officials in their search for additional revenue, have begun to consider the possibility of placing a heavier burden on life insurance. Originally, life insurance was subject to no Federal estate tax, but receipts in excess of $40,000 were taxed as a war measure in 1917 and no change in this provision was made when the First World War ended.

Now the proposal is heard to upset the principles upon which life insurance protection has been based and extend the taxing power to funds hitherto exempt.

From the viewpoint of business, life insurance is regarded as something to indemnify the beneficiary against a loss he has suffered. It is argued that there is no more reason why this form of indemnification should be taxed than there is to tax the proceeds of fire insurance policies.

While permitting deductions for some business expenses, the Federal income tax law in the past has barred deductions for life insurance premiums. But up to 15 per cent deductible for contributions to charity. This a man may obtain tax relief if he gives to others, but nothing if he attempts to make suitable provision for his own family. England and Australia are more liberal in this respect.

America has led the world in life insurance. It has been the agency whereby untold suffering has been avoided and it has been the chief means for assuring the security and stability of the family after death has put an end to ordinary sources of income. While Congress appropriates billions to preserve the American way of life it should not, in a thoughtless moment, do something that will help destroy it.

Employees Watch As "Minute-Man" Flag is Presented

Each speaker was brief, and each highly congratulated the employees on their endeavor. Mr. Kelly told that during the past year he has visited points in at least 40 states where similar payroll deduction plans were started.

"But there is nothing more thrilling than seeing the results of work which has been started, such as the results we are honoring here today. Because you have seen fit to take a share in a patriotic endeavor, you are also creating a 'back-log' and a 'cushion' for yourselves in the future." He then reminded that the purchase of stamps and bonds will be an aid to all in the maladjusted period which possibly lies ahead. "The bonds will be your savings of the 'fat' years," he concluded.

Mr. Reilly introduced Miss Bard, who in well-chosen words presented the "Minute-Man Flag" to the firm's president. "It is thrilling to know there are men and women like you, working every day to aid in the war effort, and who are also giving at least 10 per cent of your salary for purchase of War Bonds. You are showing your faith in America," she said. As Miss Bard presented the blue and white flag to Mr. deGanahl and through him to the employees, she added: "One thing we must not forget is that each of you is responsible for what our country needs and does. And we must remember that without each of you workers and thousands of others like you, our country cannot do much."

Mr. deGanahl, in accepting the flag, remarked that "It signifies one of our

Essential in the equipment of every Soldier, Sailor, Marine or Flyer is a first aid kit, consisting of bandages and antiseptics for instantaneous use. These materials are packed into a compact box and cost about $1.50 each.

Pastor, Bristol Presbyterian Church

We pray thy blessing, O God, upon the youth of the world, that they might find proper leadership, that those who go before them might deliver unto them the banner of Jesus Christ in all its purity and in all its beauty. Upon our youth rests the burden of the future, filled as it will be with problems, hardships and adversity. May they not seek their strength in the creations of the mind of man, but may they stand fast upon that Rock Which is Christ Jesus our Lord, deriving from Him that wisdom, guidance and strength which the day demands. Help us to build, O God, that these young lives might have an adequate foundation. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The greatest mustache in show business, Jerry Colonna's 3½-inch handlebar, owes its being to the comedian's reverent memory of his grandfather. With this revelation, Colonna, appearing in "True to the Army," with Judy Canova, Allan Jones and Ann Miller, at the Bristol Theatre, broke a long-time silence when interviewed regarding the mustache which is his pet and pride.

Smiley Burgette's varied activities before he entered pictures with Gene Autry and made such popular successes as "Home in Wyoming," now show-

RITZ THEATRE

The most delightful type of comedy is one which blends drama with humor, and that is just what "Larceny, Inc." does. It tells the story of a gangster who finds himself kept so busy in an honest enterprise that he hasn't the time to rob a bank. The star of the film, which makes its local debut today at the Ritz Theatre, is Edward G. Robinson, whom no one can surpass in gangster roles.

Heinz Home InstituteLuncheon Quickie for the Children

When your ravenous youngsters dash home for lunch see that there's plenty of good solid food on the table for them. Hefty food. The rib-sticking kind that will fill them up and stand by them through an afternoon of work and play. Authorities say a five-year-old child has as much energy to burn as a laboring man. A grown man will conserve his strength though, while a child will squander all he has in one short morning, so that by nighttime he is really starved and in great need of quick refueling.

To save your own time and still serve substantial food, build the children's luncheon around a quick meal-in-one-dish. Something like a Hot Potato Salad made of tender boiled potato cubes and spicy wieners, moistened with mayonnaise and condiments, with, as a special tasty treat, snibblings of cross cut sweet pickles tucked in for extra flavor. This Hot Potato Salad served with a tall cool glass of milk, a dish of fruit, and cookies makes an ample children's menu that will not tax your time or talents.

Hot Potato Salad

Cook, then dice into medium sized pieces—

4 large potatoes.

Add—

¾ cup sweet pickles or cross cut sweet pickles, diced
4 leftover cooked wieners, skinned and sliced.

Mix together—

1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
½ cup mayonnaise
¼ cup sweet pickle liquor
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.

Heat just to simmering. Pour over potatoes and combine very lightly. Serve as vegetable with scrambled eggs, if desired. Serves 6.

Pickle Pointers

1. Mix two parts ready-to-serve peanut butter with one part tart India relish for a Pic-Nut picnic spread.
2. To turn out tasty canapés, spread very thin whole wheat wafers with a layer of prepared peanut butter and edge with a border of India relish, chopped fresh cucumber pickle, or very finely chopped, crisp cooked bacon.
3. For a fine first course nibbling, slice delicious dills and spread with a topping made of 1 package cream cheese blended with 1 tablespoon evaporated horseradish soaked for 10 minutes in twice the amount of cold water.
4. To pickle beets quickly, cover with the juice from preserved sweet mixed pickles or from cross cut sweet pickles and let stand several hours.
5. To pickle eggs use juice from any of the preserved sweet pickles. If you prefer a little color add some beet juice or vegetable coloring.
6. Pert and piquant is this mixture of 2 cups mayonnaise and ¼ cup chopped chow-chow. Sumptuous on salads!
7. For a cunning canapé, toast thin rounds of white bread on one side. Spread lightly with prepared mayonnaise, add a slice of fresh cucumber pickle, another fluff of mayonnaise, and top with a chilled shrimp.
8. Add ½ cup sweet mustard pickle, chopped, to a three-pound meat loaf when mixing ingredients. Makes grand sandwich filling when sliced cold.
9. Spiced peaches can be prepared quickly, and effortlessly, any season of the year by simply soaking canned peaches in the juice from preserved sweet gherkins, preserved sweet mixed pickles, cross cut sweet pickles, or spicy sweet pickles.
10. For a tart and tasty coleslaw, thin mayonnaise with spicy pickle juice.

FORFEITS GAME TO DIAMOND NINE WHEN ST. ANN'S MANAGER IS ORDERED OUT OF GAME BY UMPIRE

Umpire Walt Miller last night forfeited the St. Ann's-Diamond game to the Diamond team when Manager "Lefty" DiTanna was put out of the game for using threatening language, leaving the St. Ann's team with eight players.

The Diamond team was leading at the time, 7-3, having scored all their runs in the first two innings. It was beginning of the fifth when an argument took place which ended in the forfeiture.

It seems that Umpire Miller thought that the St. Ann's team was stalling for darkness so he went out to warn Pitcher Jimmy Hopkins and several other players that they either play ball or he would forfeit the game. Acting Manager DiTanna did not hear what Miller was saying so he came running in from centerfield for a clarification of what went on.

Miller gave DiTanna one minute to get back to his position and play ball and while walking back, DiTanna is alleged to have threatened Miller who put DiTanna out of the game, leaving St. Ann's with eight players, and forfeiting the game.

The Diamond team made three hits in the contest while St. Ann's had five safe blows. LaPolla started for St. Ann's and was relieved in the second by Jim Hopkins. Jefferies was doing the throwing for the Diamond team.

Gasoline Rationing Still Much Debated

page four in the book on rationing regulations is the following:

"(24) 'Passenger Automobile' means any motor vehicle other than a motorcycle, built primarily for the purpose of transporting passengers and having a rated seating capacity of seven or less; and also includes station wagons and suburban carryalls, irrespective of seating capacity."

"According to this definition a station wagon is classed the same as an automobile, and application for supplemental rationing can be made on the same form and in the same manner as if it were an automobile."

The board member was asked "how the amount of mileage allowed by the board is arrived at." The reply was: "The Government has made out a list of some 14 different purposes for which an automobile can be used and these purposes are called 'Preferred Mileage.' The board may not allow an average of more than 470 miles per month for any occupational mileage but may allow mileage in excess of 470 miles per month only if such excess consists of such preferred mileage."

"Owing to these limitations in the authority of the board many a rider will be disappointed and chagrined because his mileage has been reduced. Where a business or professional man is the owner of two automobiles the government feels that he should designate one for his business car and not use the other. In that event many such owners who have asked for mileage above 470 miles per month for each car and do not come under the preferred classification will be obliged to be satisfied with a 'B' book for 470 miles per month for one car and an 'A' book for the other car. The law really allows the board to take 150 miles from the 'B' book and call it a deduction from the 'A' book, if it feels that the situation warrants it."

The Board member was asked concerning salesmen. The reply was: "For some reason the government seemingly wants to put the salesmen in a despised and undesirable class. The board cannot allow them over 470 miles per month except to those who come under one of the subjects of 'Preferred Mileage.'"

"Last week the board was visited by some officials of the O. P. A. One of them told me about the restrictions on mileage to be allowed to salesmen. I turned to him and said: 'Does the government want to destroy the small business man? When this war is over and the reconstruction period comes, the big businesses will have a hard time and many thousands of men will be thrown out of employment, temporarily. Who then will furnish a foundation of safety and security for the American Nation? Why the small business man! And yet the Government wants to put him out of business.' The official denied that such was the policy of the Government and the conversation ceased. As a member of the board I shall do my duty, but I still reserve the right to form my own opinion of what is right and wrong."

"Many people are concerned about the method to be employed in getting rationing for transportation to hospitals, or conveying sick people to places where medical aid can be obtained. "An application of this kind will come under what is called 'Special Rations.' Under this head at the top of page 24 in the book of rationing regulations, it states: 'To obtain necessary medical attention or therapeutic treatment.' Persons who desire to receive rationing under this head should first obtain a doctor's certificate which clearly states the facts, and present it to the board along with the special application which they must fill out. If everything is satisfactory a rationing book may be issued for a period of six months."

"It will be interesting to many to know that under this heading gasoline rationing can be obtained at election time to transport voters to and from the polls and for use by a bona fide candidate for public office for purposes essential to the prosecution of his candidacy."

"Naturally a great deal of dissatisfaction already exists and much more will be heard when the rationing books are issued."

The question is asked: "In the event that an applicant for gasoline rationing feels that he has not been treated fairly can he appeal to the board?"

"He certainly can," said the Board member. "He may appeal orally or in writing. The board must give the appellant a fair hearing. If he should be dissatisfied with the verdict issued by the board, then he may appeal to the state director. If he feels that he has still been treated unfairly he can make a final appeal to the regional administrator."

A&P Tea Company To Buy Waste Fats and Greases

PHILADELPHIA, July 21—Co-operating with the War Production Board's drive to salvage waste fats and greases from the nation's kitchens, the A&P Tea Company this week starts purchasing such waste from housewives in the Philadelphia area, according to L. A. Mullen, Philadelphia, Unit Head. The move is company-wide.

Considered one of the most important salvage programs proposed by the WPB, the effort is aimed at increasing the nation's supply of glycerin, a fat derivative vital in the production of explosives for bombs and shells. Estimating that two billion pounds of household cooking fats are wasted each year, WPB hopes to salvage one-fourth of this amount.

Local housewives, who will be kept informed of the program through company advertising in newspapers and on the radio, will be asked to save fats in large-mouth metal containers. Glass containers will not be acceptable. The fats, in quantities of one pound or more, may be brought to A&P meat counters, Mr. Mullen said, where the prevailing rate of five cents a pound will be paid. The company will resell the fats to rendering concerns under WPB regulations.

The company, Mr. Mullen added, already is co-operating with the government in salvaging waste paper, old rubber and scrap metal resulting from store operations. A continuous program is maintained for conserving cartons, boxes and other articles that pile up in store basements in the normal course of business.
